Library awarded $40,000 to build 'Teen Space'

The Atlantic City Free Public Library incorporated input from local teens in creating plans for a new Teen Space.

The Atlantic City Free Public Library was selected to receive $40,000 in funding to create a special Teen Space as part of the South Jersey Regional Library Cooperative's A+ Teen Space Demonstration Project.

Atlantic City will begin working on its Teen Space immediately with an anticipated grand opening of September 2009.

"We are excited to have this opportunity to expand services for teens in Atlantic City," Atlantic City Free Public Library Director Maureen Sherr Frank said. "We are looking forward to developing a special area with new technology and educational resources in the Main Library to encourage learning, exploration and creativity."

The 985-square-foot Teen Space, which will be located on the Main Library's second floor, will be comprised of two main sections: The Lounge and Teen Central.

The Lounge will be a casual, teen-only area for teens to gather, and it will include work stations, modern lounge furniture, space to hold meetings and special programs, a large screen television, video gaming area, computers and CD listening station.

Teen Central will be a quiet area designed for teens

Black History Month events designed to educate, entertain

The Atlantic City Free Public Library will continue its tradition of offering programs in February in celebration of Black History Month.

Monday, Feb. 2 to Saturday, Feb. 28 — The library, in conjunction with the African-American Heritage Museum of Southern New Jersey, will present an exhibit, "Gene Hudgins and the Yard," the saga of the Pennsylvania Avenue School Yard and its impact on Atlantic City and the region. Hudgins was a local icon and former pro basketball player with the Harlem Globetrotters. The Atlantic City native mentored future business, civic, political and educational leaders who played basketball at the legendary playground 'Yard.'

Wednesday, Feb. 4, at 5 p.m. — Evolution of Black Dance in America performance: Youth ages 10 to 17 will give a performance that takes the audience on a journey of dance styles from 1615 to modern day. The youth will be training for this performance in January (Jan. 7, 14, 21, 28) under the direction of instructor Pattie Harris. Those interested in performing can call (609) 345-2269, ext. 3052, to register.

Saturday, Feb. 14, at 12 p.m. — Watch "The Black Candle" and Meet Director M.K. Asante, Jr.: The Black Candle is a landmark, vibrant documentary that uses Kwanzaa as a vehicle to explore and celebrate the African-American experience.

Following the documentary, the audience can meet M.K. Asante, Jr., the movie's director.

Meet top urban fiction author Jan. 24

The Atlantic City Free Public Library will hold a Meet the Author program featuring K'wan — one of the biggest names in all of urban fiction — at 1 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 24, in the Main Library meeting room.

"(K'wan) is the James Patterson of urban fiction."
— Chantél Harvey,
library urban fiction coordinator

The popularity of urban fiction at the Atlantic City Library is immense, accounting for approximately one quarter of all fiction items circulated in 2008 — and K'wan is among the

Photos needed for exhibit honoring city's military veterans

Female members of the military parade on the Atlantic City Boardwalk in 1945.

The Atlantic City Free Public Library, in conjunction with American Legion Post 61 and the African American Heritage Museum of Southern New Jersey, is looking for photos and other materials featuring military veterans who live or have lived in Atlantic City.

The photos are being requested for a planned exhibit that will be held at the All Wars Memorial Building in Atlantic City in the spring 2009. The pictures should feature the veterans during active service or in uniform. Photos showing veterans from any military branch or era can be submitted for consideration.

Those who submit photos for the exhibit can choose to donate or lend them to the library. These photos will be available in the future as part of the library's Alfred M. Heston Collection, a growing collection of information and photographs documenting the city's past. People lending photos will have the original copies returned after they are duplicated.

The deadline to submit items for consideration for the exhibit is Friday, Feb. 15, 2009.

To submit photos, please stop by or call the Heston Collection Room at the Main Library, which is located at One North Tennessee Avenue. Please call (609) 345-2269, ext. 3062, for more information.

'30 Years, 30 Voices' oral history project audio clips, findings to be shared Jan. 31

The Atlantic City Free Public Library will officially unveil to the public its '30 Years, 30 Voices' oral history project at 2 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 31, in the Main Library meeting room.

The project, which began in May 2008, features interviews with 30 people or groups who have witnessed the impact of casinos on Atlantic City and the area since the city's first casino, Resorts International, officially opened on May 26, 1978.

The library interviewed a broad cross-section of the Atlantic City community, including casino employees and executives, city government officials, members of the media, business owners, residents and community leaders.

Audio clips from some of the interviews will be played. The contractor for this project, Dr. James Karmel, a professional historian, author and associate professor of history at Harford (Md.) Community College, will also discuss the people who were interviewed and some of their remarks, and he will answer questions from the audience.

In addition to the public, the library is inviting all of its narrators to attend the program.

Following the program, transcripts from the oral history interviews will be available in the Alfred M. Heston Collection of Atlantic City history during normal research hours or by appointment. Research hours are Wednesdays from 2-4:30 p.m., and Thursdays from 9:30 a.m.-12 p.m. and 2-4:30 p.m.

For additional information or to set up an appointment, please call Heston Collection archivist Heather Halpin Pérez at (609) 345-2269, ext. 3062.

genre's most read authors.

He hit the scene in 2002 with his debut novel Gangsta, under Triple Crown Publications. What started as an argument went on to become a part of urban-lit history and an Essence bestseller, as well as drawing rave reviews overseas.

After penning his second novel, Road Dawgz (2003), K'wan drew the attention of St. Martin's press. The literary powerhouse quickly signed K'wan to a three-book deal, the first release being Street Dreams (2004). K'wan's titles also include Hoodlum (2005),

Eve (2006), Hood Rat (2006), Blow (2007), Flexin & Sexin (2007) and Still Hood (2007).

With these and several yet-to-be-published Dark Fantasy pieces, K'wan has proven himself to be among the literary game's elite.

"He is the James Patterson of urban fiction," said Chantel Harvey, the library's urban fiction coordinator.

K'wan has been featured in Time Magazine, Vibe, King, Big News, Time Out New York, and The New York Press.

to read, study, use a computer and do homework or research. The library's teen collection of books, magazines, movies, games and music will be located in Teen Central — and parents, teachers and others will have access to this area to utilize those resources.

"Teens can't be asked to wait, especially in tough financial times, for a fun, free and safe space with access to new and creative technology, room to collaborate, and the kinds of things they want to read," according to Karen Hyman, Director of the South Jersey Regional Library Cooperative, which provided matching funds for the project. "At SJRLC, we are tremendously impressed with the Atlantic City Library and teen community who put together a proposal that really knocked us out."

The Teen Space will have a vibrant, colorful and modern look. One of the most visually dramatic aspects of the space will be a large mural designed by graffiti artist Stephen Stuart-Gibson, who will seek teen input and participation in creating a design. There will also be a wall for a teen art gallery.

The SJRLC's public library members were invited to submit proposals for this project. The SJRLC will give $40,000 in funding, including $10,000 of a special grant for its A+ Project from the New Jersey State Library. The Atlantic City Library will provide a match of $35,000, bringing the total devoted to this project to $75,000.

Teen Services Coordinator Jennifer Boyce, who coordinated the project, led the team in preparing the library's submission. She involved local teens throughout the design phase to get their input on what they would like to see the space include. The library contracted with interior designer Shaina Horton, who created designs based on the suggestions and preferences of the teenagers.

"The design objective is to eliminate the notion of the typical library environment and design a space where the teens can be themselves and have fun while learning in the process," Boyce said.

The A+ Teen Space Project was made possible with funding from the Atlantic City Free Public Library, South Jersey Regional Library Cooperative and New Jersey State Library, which is responsible for the coordination, promotion and funding of the New Jersey Library Network.

In addition to the Atlantic City Library, the Camden County Library was also chosen for funding.

For more information, please call Boyce at (609) 345-2269, ext. 3052.

Did You Know?

You can park for free when you visit the Atlantic City Free Public Library

Whether you come by foot, bicycle or car, the Atlantic City Free Public Library's home at One North Tennessee Avenue is conveniently located. The Main Library is a short walk from the Boardwalk, bus station and various bus and jitney stops. The mode of transportation for many of our customers is a bicycle. There is a bicycle rack outside of our Tennessee Avenue entrance for you to lock up your wheels.

If you decide to drive to visit us, there are some nearby places for you to park. Though the library doesn't have its own parking lot, there are excellent alternatives for you to choose from: If you are making just a quick stop, there is a 15-minute parking area on Tennessee Avenue right next to the library. This is a great option if you need to return materials or pop in just for a moment or two.

Those who need a little more time might want to consider the New York Avenue Parking Garage located on South New York Avenue between Atlantic and Pacific avenues. The library offers free validation for one hour. Be sure to bring you parking ticket to the library so we can validate it. Also, there is metered parking spots on the streets surrounding the Main Library. On the weekends, library customers can park at the City Hall parking lot, which is located at Arctic and South Carolina avenues. You must park in an unmarked spot or one marked for visitors. The City Hall lot is just a few hundred feet from the Main Library.
