Library opens new space, world of possibilities for local teens

Completing homework assignments using online resources.

Creating movies using the latest in multi-media technology.

Finding information about job openings and college scholarships.

Hanging out with friends in a fun and safe environment.

Local teenagers will be able to do those things, and more, at the Atlantic City Library Teen Space, which officially opened to the public on Thursday, Oct. 8.

The Atlantic City Free Public Library staff and Board of Trustees, local officials and teens, and library personnel from around the state were on hand as the library celebrated the new

The 985-square-foot Teen Space, for youth ages 13 to 18, includes state-of-the-art technology, computer workstations, a graffiti art mural painted by local teens, an art gallery, large screen television and more.

The A+ Teen Space Project is funded by the Atlantic City Free Public Library, a service of the City of Atlantic City, South Jersey Regional Library Cooperative (SJRLC) and the New Jersey

State Library (NJSL), which is responsible for the coordination, promotion and funding of the New Jersey Library Network.

The library received $40,000 in funding from the SJRLC, including $10,000 of a special grant for its A+ Project from the NJSL. The Atlantic City Library provided a match of $35,000, bringing the total devoted to this project to $75,000.

Call (609) 345-2269, ext. 3052, for information about the Teen Space.

Library bringing Kwanzaa event to All Wars Building

The Atlantic City Free Public Library will continue one of its longest running traditions when it presents a Kwanzaa celebration on Saturday, Dec. 26, at 2 p.m. at the All Wars Memorial Building in the third-floor auditorium.

The 22nd annual program will feature the spectacular and nationally renowned Universal African Dance and Drum Ensemble, which is based in Camden. This program is free and open to people of all ages.

Kwanzaa is a holiday of African heritage and values and is celebrated from Dec. 26 through Jan. 1.

The Universal African Dance and Drum Ensemble puts on high-energy performances that are exciting, educational and acrobatic.

Spectators will be treated to an electrifying blend of ancestral dancing, intensified drumming and stilt walking. The group, which dresses in traditional African garb, has performed throughout the

A photographic look back at library events from September and October

We'll miss you, Theda!

Atlantic City Free Public Library staff members past and present were among those who paid tribute to friend and co-worker Theda Bradley on Friday, Oct. 9, at the Old Waterway Inn. Bradley (first row, fifth from the left) retired this summer after working at the library for 29 years, including 27 at the Richmond Branch Library. Atlantic City Mayor Lorenzo T. Langford attended the celebration and presented a proclamation declaring that Oct. 9, 2009, was "Theda Bradley Day" in Atlantic City.

Fantastic day for Family Fun Festival

More shots from the Atlantic City Library Teen Space grand opening

Celebrating Hispanic Heritage Month

The City of Atlantic City, Atlantic City Free Public Library Casa Dominicana and Asociación Cultura Latina del Condado de Atlantic co-sponsored a Hispanic Heritage Month celebration on Wednesday, Oct. 14, at Police and Firemen's Plaza, located between City Hall and the Main Library. The celebration featured a variety of Hispanic music and dance performances, and food.

Fines, fees waived for children, teens via 'Start Fresh' program

The Atlantic City Free Public Library is offering children and teenagers with fines and fees an opportunity to "Start Fresh."

The Start Fresh program is an amnesty that will result in fines and fees being waived for children and teenagers who incurred those penalties from overdue, lost or damaged items borrowed from the library before Jan. 1, 2009.

Library members who are now adults but incurred fines as children or a teenagers are not eligible for this program. The Start Fresh program will run from Nov. 4 to Dec. 31, 2009.

The goal of this program is to encourage children and teens to come back to the library and use all of the library's resources, including those in the new Teen Space Lounge. Only library members ages 13 to 18 in good standing can apply to gain access to the The Lounge.

Please call (609) 345-2269, ext. 3112, for more information.

The library's webpage, www.acfpl.org, features a Business Portal

If you are thinking about starting or growing your own small business, the Atlantic City Free Public Library is ready for you.

Check out the new Business Portal on the library's webpage — www.acfpl.org. You will find a wealth of information that you will need.

The library subscribes to an array of online business databases that you can access for free 24 hours a day, seven days a week, if you have an Atlantic City Free Public Library card and access to a computer with an Internet connection. Some of the databases available on the Business Portal include:

- Small Business Resource Center — Find a business plan with budget figures, startup costs and more.

- Business Source Elite — Find articles in journals and magazines on marketing strategies, labor, management and more.

- First Research Industry Reports — Find out who the competition is and learn your industry's trends.

- Reference USA — Identify similar businesses and their sales volume. Think of it as the Yellow Pages for every state in one database.

- Regional Business News — Get timely information from newspapers and trade magazines on the business climate in your area.

To check out the Business portal, visit www.acfpl.org, highlight the Do Research tab and then select Business Resources. In addition to the online resources, you'll also find links for business-related book lists and websites.

If you have any questions, please stop by the Main Library Reference Desk, e-mail us at reflib@acfpl.org or call us at (609) 345-2269.
