The Atlantic City Free Public Library will host an exhibit, 'The Black Northside Empire: A Photographic Look at Atlantic City's African-American Community,' throughout February in celebration of Black History Month. An opening night reception for the exhibit, created by African American American Heritage Museum of Southern New Jersey founder Ralph E. Hunter, Sr., will be held at 6 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 1.

Exhibit to highlight 'The Black Northside Empire'

Black History Month events include talks by Turiya S.A. Raheem, Tyrone Hart and Links jazz programs

The Atlantic City Free Public Library will continue a tradition by offering a variety of exciting programs throughout February to celebrate Black History Month.

One of the highlights will be a month-long exhibit, "The Black Northside Empire: A Photographic Look at Atlantic City's African-American Community."

African American Heritage Museum of Southern New Jersey founder Ralph E. Hunter, Sr., is putting together the exhibit, which will feature photographs of influential people such as Sarah Spencer Washington and Enoch "Nucky" Johnson, along with the residents, businesses, professionals and churches of the Northside during the 1920s to '40s.

The library will hold an opening night reception at 6 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 1, in the Main Library's second-floor meeting room.

Hunter, Ada McClinton, Elwood Davis and Kenny Hill are among those scheduled to speak during the reception, which is free and open to the public.

The library will also host several

Library presents books to city child care centers

The Atlantic City Free Public Library and City of Atlantic City kicked off a new family literacy initiative by presenting a display filled with 50 new books to the James L. Usry Day Care Center on Wednesday, Dec. 8.

The James L. Usry Day Care Center is the first of 11 state licensed city child care centers to receive a book collection as part of the "Atlantic City Library to Go: Reading Together" project.

The following centers are also slated to receive books and a displayer from the library by the end of January:

- Adriatic Avenue Headstart Center and Day Care
- Adventure Learning Community Center
- Atlantic Avenue Headstart
- Atlantic City Day Nursery
- Atlantic City High School Headstart
- Mediterranean Avenue Headstart Center
- Providence Pediatric Medical Day Care
- Robinson Small Learning Center
- Tennant's Day Care
- Tennessee Avenue Headstart Center

The library will provide each location with 30-50 books, depending on the center's enrollment, and a displayer

New year! New hours!

Main Library will be open
9:30 a.m. six days a week

The Atlantic City Free Public Library is changing the opening time for the Main Library, located at One North Tennessee Avenue.

As of Monday, Jan. 3, the Main Library will open to the public at 9:30 a.m. Monday through Saturday.

"We want to make it more convenient for our customers to use the library by providing a consistent opening time during the week," Library Director Maureen Sherr Frank said. "The Sunday hours will remain 12 to 5 p.m."

Even when the time change goes into effect, the Main Library

THE ATLANTIC CITY FREE PUBLIC LIBRARY IS A SERVICE OF THE CITY OF ATLANTIC CITY

Library introduces ‘The Atlantic City Experience’ website

The Atlantic City Free Public Library is telling the story about the places, people and events that shaped the city by presenting “The Atlantic City Experience.”

The library unveiled a 1920s photo and clothing exhibit in October in honor of the HBO smash series “Boardwalk Empire.” That exhibit will remain on display at the Main Library until spring 2011.

And, the library has expanded its Atlantic City Experience project by introducing a website — atlanticcityexperience.org — as a way of continuing to promote the city’s rich history.

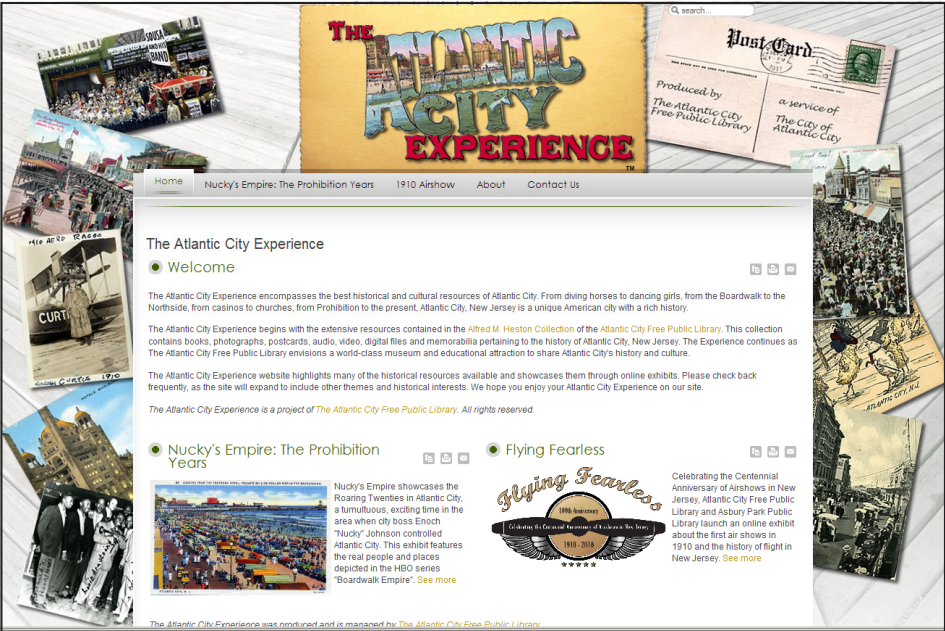

The Atlantic City Experience website provides some of the extensive resources contained in the library’s Alfred M. Heston Collection. This collection contains books, photographs, postcards, audio, video, digital files and memorabilia pertaining to the city’s history.

The focus of the website is the early 1900s and includes a section on former Atlantic City boss Enoch “Nucky” Johnson. The site will be expanded to include additional information and photos of other eras in city history.

“The library’s Atlantic City Experience will increase access to the historical and cultural resources in Atlantic City,” Library Director Maureen Sherr Frank said. “We look forward to turning our Atlantic City Experience concept into something special for those interested in the city’s history.”

For more information about The Atlantic City Experience, please call (609) 345-2269, ext. 3062.

‘The Atlantic City Experience’ website highlights the city’s most influential people, places, events and trends from the early 1900s. The site will be enhanced regularly to include other time periods in city history.

Coming Book Drawing Lessons with Joe Del Beato on Thursday, Feb. 3, 17 and 24, at 3:30 p.m. — Marvel DC Comic illustrator Joe Del Beato will give drawing instruction for children. The February lessons will be a salute to African-American superheroes. Del Beato will focus on African-American characters that have been featured in comics, cartoons and graphic novels.

Meet the Author: Turiya S.A. Raheem on Saturday, Feb. 12, at 2 p.m. — Raheem will discuss her book, Growing Up in the Other Atlantic City: Wash’s and The Northside. Atlantic City Weekly columnist Raymond Tyler described the book as “a living love letter to an Atlantic City that passed away far too soon.” Raheem’s family (the Washingtons) operated the Wash’s restaurants in Atlantic City before relocating the business to Pleasantville. She uses her family’s experiences living and working in Atlantic City to tell the story of African-American Northside community. She discusses the businesses, nightlife, her family and the tight-knit community before the arrival of casinos. Raheem, who resides in Atlantic City, also explains the Northside’s contribution to the city as a whole.

Children’s Book Club on Saturday, Feb. 5 and 19, at 3 p.m. — Members of the Children’s Book Club read and discuss book selections over snacks and make story-inspired crafts. Any child who joins the program also receives a free copy of the book to keep. The program is best suited for ages 8 to 12. To register, please call (609) 345-2269 ext. 3050. The club will read Sharon Dennis Wyeth’s Something Beautiful. A young African-American girl longs to see beyond the scary sights on the sidewalk and the angry scribbling in the halls of her building. When her teacher writes the word beautiful on the blackboard, the girl decides to look for something beautiful in her neighborhood. Her neighbors tell her about their own beautiful things.

Author Turiya S.A. Raheem and artist Tyrone L. Hart will discuss their work at upcoming programs. Raheem wrote Growing Up in the Other Atlantic City: Wash’s and The Northside, while Hart did the cover art work for The Northside: African Americans and the Creation of Atlantic City.

Atlantic City Chapter of The Links, Incorporated Presents Jazz Concert, Art and Seminar on Sunday, Feb. 13, at 1 to 4 p.m. — Jazz lovers will be in for a treat when The Links (Atlantic City Chapter), along with co-sponsor Atlantic City Free Public Library, holds its annual event in the atrium next to the Main Library. The Hassan Abdullah Quartet, a local favorite, will help kick things off at 1 p.m. by playing the music of some of the legends of jazz. At the other end of the atrium, the jazz portraits of painter Wayne Manns, Jr., will be on display. Manns’ work has been exhibited around the world. He has presented his paintings to Bill Clinton and Donald Trump, among others. Also, Dr. Teresa Reed from the University of Tulsa will lead a seminar, “Jazz in Color and Song: A Soundtrack for the Artwork of Wayne Manns,” beginning at 2:30 p.m. in the auditorium. The Links, Incorporated is one of the nation’s oldest and largest volunteer service organizations of extraordinary women who are committed to enriching, sustaining and ensuring the culture and economic survival of African Americans and other persons of African ancestry. For more information about The Links, Incorporated, please visit www.linksinc.org.

Meet the Artist: Tyrone L. Hart on Saturday, Feb. 19, at 2 p.m. — An Atlantic City native, Hart will discuss his life and career as an artist. Hart created the art work for the cover of The Northside: African Americans and the Creation of Atlantic City. The book was written by Nelson Johnson, who also wrote Boardwalk Empire. Hart said he first realized his talent at the age of 14 after winning first place for a painting of Spider-Man. His work has since appeared in galleries in southern New Jersey, Philadelphia, Delaware and North Carolina.

West African Wisdom: Adinkra Cloth Design Workshop with Donna Bridy on Sunday, Feb. 20, at 2 p.m. — Using rubber stamps, participants will craft West African symbols known as adinkra on cloth, creating beautifully designed work they can take home. This program is for all ages.

Movie screening and discussion: “With Deliberate Speed” with Special Guest Nathaniel Briggs on Saturday, Feb. 26, at 2 p.m. — Sixteen-year-old Barbara Johns led students in Virginia on a walkout in 1951 to protest overcrowding at their all-black school. The resulting court case became part of the landmark Brown vs. Board of Education ruling 50 years ago, in which the Supreme Court declared segregation unconstitutional. The movie looks at how that case is impacting education and society 50 years later. Nathaniel Briggs and other black children in Clarendon County, S.C., were forced to walk up to six miles to school. The community’s request for a school bus was not granted. The Briggs family sued the school district in 1950 — the United States’ first legal challenge in the 20th century to the “Separate But Equal Doctrine.” The Briggs’ case was later joined by the U.S. Supreme Court with four other lawsuits that ultimately became known as “Brown vs. Board of Education.” While the Briggs’ case was the first to reach the court, Brown vs. the Board has become known as “the hinge upon which the door to equal educational opportunity was opened to black children.”

Movie: Akeelah and the Bee (PG) on Sunday, Feb. 27, at 2 p.m. — Eleven-year-old Akeelah Anderson must overcome major obstacles in her personal life in her quest to reach Scripps National Spelling Bee. Angela Bassett, Laurence Fishburne and Keke Palmer star in the movie.

Did You Know?

Recession drives more Americans to libraries for services, resources

The American Library Association (ALA) released in April 2010 its annual "State of America's Libraries Report." The report found Americans are turning to libraries in ever larger numbers for access to resources for employment, continuing education and government services. Since the recession took hold in December 2007, the local library, a traditional source of free access to books, magazines, CDs and DVDs, has become a lifeline, offering technology training and workshops on topics that ranged from résumé-writing to job-interview skills, the report says. Some of the key findings:

- A growing number of Americans feel the public library improves the quality of life in their community
- As early as January 2009, more than 25 million Americans reported using their library more than 20 times in the past year, an increase of 23 percent from 2006 — a trend that continued the rest of the year.
- A vast majority of public libraries help patrons complete online job applications (67 percent); provide access to job databases and other online resources (88 percent) and civil service exam materials (75 percent); and offer software or other resources (69 percent) to help patrons create resumes and other employment materials.
- Internet use at public libraries has seen double-digit growth since 2007 in the online services they make available to their patrons. More than 71 percent of public libraries provide their community's only free public access to computers and the Internet.

The Atlantic City Free Public Library provides free computer training workshops and free access to the Internet and electronic resources from 50 public computers at the Main Library and 20 public computers at the Atlantic City Library Express.
